

Announcing Little Star #7 (2016)

Little Star is an annual print literary magazine of poetry and prose and a weekly app, available for iPhone or iPad and online at weekly.littlestarjournal.com

Our new print issue includes work by Gjertrud Schnackenberg, Les Murray, Robert Wrigley, Rowan Ricardo Phillips, Cynan Jones, Tadeusz Dabrowski, Anthony Madrid, Maria Stepanova (translated by Sasha Dugdale), Michael Kimball, Friedrich Hölderlin (translated by Bruce Lawder), Michael Palmer, Aaron Their, April Bernard, Nina Bogin, Barry Gifford, Mary Jo Salter, Rosanna Warren, Serhiy Zhadan, and more.

Little Star has received two Pushcart Prizes in five years and been a staff pick of Flavorwire, Paris Review Daily, Black Balloon, and New York Review Books. We've been covered by T Magazine, the New Yorker's Book Bench, PBS's Need to Know, The Leonard Lopate Show, The Irish Times, USA Network's Character Approved, and Poets & Writers' Literary MagNet News. Our pieces have appeared in Harper's Readings, the Browser, Arts & Letters Daily, and The New Republic's Elsewhere In the Republic of Letters.

Little Star has in the past published work by Joy Williams, W. G. Sebald (letters), Caleb Crain, Padgett Powell, Gary Snyder, Mark Strand, Derek Walcott, Ann Beattie, Seamus Heaney, Jamaica Kincaid, César Aira, Paul Muldoon, Denis Johnson, Clarice Lispector, John Banville, Jesse Ball, Vladimir Sorokin, Don Paterson, John Guare, Herta Müller, Philip Levine, Zbigniew Herbert, Thomas Bernhard, Friedrich Dürrenmatt, James Kelman, Kathryn Davis, James Lasdun, Adam Zagajewski, Barry Yourgrau, C. K. Williams, Geoffrey O'Brien, Susan Wheeler, Dean Young, Stig Dagerman, Ange Mlinko, Carl Phillips, and Wislawa Szymborska, and more.

A very fine venture indeed ... everything such a magazine should be
—John Banville

A sophisticated, wise, and fierce little magazine
—Jessa Crispin

Just about the best lit mag out there
—Meakin Armstrong

Little Star is youthful, zesty, international, unpredictable, and a joy to read.
—Rosanne Warren

Look @Little Star new literary journal—how I wonder what you are?—is brightly twinkling
—Margaret Atwood (via Twitter)

Print issue: $14.95; PDF $7.95

Distributed by Ubiquity

Order our issues at littlestarjournal.com/issues

Shop in our bookstore at littlestarjournal.com/bookshop

Press at littlestarjournal.com/about

More information: info@littlestarjournal.com

107 Bank Street, New York, NY 10014; (212) 645 3346

Editor: Ann Kjellberg